Activity In Oil Fields

With the requirement of the British Government for oil the demand for development of new fields has increased. The interest in the Keo Dome Oil has become important and it is likely that this field will be a real asset to Canada.

Last week a business man of Portland motored to Barons to investigate personally. After he had gone over the field and studied the set up of the company he expressed enthusiasm for the project. He stated that the protection offered the shareholders was the best he had seen. Proof of his sincerity was seen when a cheque was sent for some 3000 shares and stated that another cheque would be coming from friends who were convinced that oil fields offered a safe investment.

It is claimed that the field is good for 30 wells at a depth of 3200 feet also that the field extends from Barons to near Champion.

Believing that this is a local enterprise of future value the Chronicle has made mention of it in trade journals which carry our own advertisement.

Any Person In Canada Who Hurts War Cause Liable to Fine and Jail

Censorship Covers Printed or Spoken Word. Intended to Prevent Information to Enemy

Regulations imposed by the Censor board of Canada set up under the War Measures Act was received by The Chronicle this week and the management are pledged to observe strictly the rulings set out which are for the good of the state.

Any publisher, radio broadcaster or public speaker, or any other person in Canada, who prejudices the prosecution of the war or the allied forces is subject to heavy fine or imprisonment or loss of property.

In general the terms of the regulations are very wide. No person shall speak, write, utter, print, publish, post, deliver, receive or have in his possession any statement which is likely to cause disaffection to His Majesty (the Government) or to prejudice relations with foreign powers or likely to prejudice the recruiting, training, discipline or administration of any of the forces. Proof of lawful excuse for the infraction of any of these items will lie with the accused and upon conviction a heavy penalty is provided.

The co operation of the municipal and other authorities that own halls where public meetings are held will be particularly appreciated in order that the regulations may be carried out.

The Chronicle believes that every resident in Canada should do his or her part in the furtherance of the cause to which this country is committed and by adhering to these regulations, and others to be imposed the public will be carrying out their duty. Needless to say The Chronicle will carry out the orders. Earlier the editor had pledged his wholehearted co operation and personal services in the prosecution of the war, the offer being acknowledged with appreciation from Ottawa.

With Walter S Thompson, a former newspaperman in charge and use of good judgement the new measure should prove an asset to the Government in uniting opinion and preventing unnecessary agitation.

WAR DEVELOPMENTS AND RELATIONSHIP TO WHEAT STUDIED

"Wheat and War" is the title of a highly informative economic study of war developments and their relations to the wheat situation, issued by the Pioneer Grain Company. Believing this to be a subject of interest to all farmers, we publish the following summary of the study. Heavy responsibilities are involved in the formulation for Canada's wheat policy for war time, says the review. Wheat is an essential commodity to Britain and her allies. Supplies available in this country may at sometime spell the difference between sufficiency and starvation. It is of the utmost importance, therefore, that whatever is done by the government be directed toward efficiency in marketing and towards the maintenance and, perhaps increase of Canadian production, it continues.

One of the chief dangers to be avoided is, hasty ill-considered action. To be fully effective Canadian wheat policy should be evolved gradually and adapted to the actual circumstances of the war. Above all there should be no hesitation in calling on the advice and services of men who have qualified themselves through long experience for positions of responsibility in Agriculture and the grain trade. Invariably our minds travel back twenty five years to the outbreak of the World War of 1914-18, the review continues. Then, as now the British Empire and France opposed themselves to German aggression. But the differences between the two events are just as significant as the similarities.

When the war of 1914-18 broke out, the countries of the world were knit together by a multitude of commercial and financial ties. To day, internationalism in economics, as in politics, is virtually a dead issue. To an increasing extent over the last few years the world has been divided itself up into distinct economic units and is therefore adjusted to a war time basis.

The difference is well illustrated by wheat. In an average year during the period 1909-13 Germany imported 90 millions bushels of wheat and flour; Italy 57 millions, France 39 millions and Great Britain 220 millions. In contrast, when world trade was at its lowest ebb in the years 1934-35 and 1935-36, Germany, Italy and France between them imported annually less than 20 million bushels. As an additional security

Loyalty Bigger Than Personalities

Red Cross Service Needs United Community Action

It has been decided by the National Executive the Red Cross to postpone for a few weeks the drive for funds in Canada. A drive to be instituted by the organization will be carried out from coast to coast.

Locally nothing will be done without the consent of the national organization, except secure full organization and have everything running well so that when the appeal goes forth the machinery will be in perfect working order

An explanation might be in order as to the activities here. The editor of this paper after consulting a number on the desirability of organizing communicated with the provincial headquarters and received instructions. After speaking with municipal authorities a public meeting was called and by way of a nominating committee a slate of officers was selected and approved by the meeting. It transpires that there was in existence a charter for a Red Cross Society here, dated 1916 although the organization has not functioned for many years but there are several life members in the district. It also appears that despite the opportunities for securing a slate of officers suitable to all, that some of the ladies feel more executive power should have been given them.

Those now serving as officers accepted their positions for the sole purpose of being of assistance, there being no salary attached and with a definite need for action to support our own Canadian manhood it is hoped that both ladies and gentlemen will co operate in a truly loyal spirit. There is a need for both elements, the men for finance and the ladies for sewing and knitting

As expressed by one, while some lie bleeding and dying at the front and our own Canadian boys are serving their country some would argue over little details of organization. The work to be done should inspire people to look beyond petty likes and dislikes.

The Chronicle is here to serve and we feel we have accomplished our aim, that of bringing the call to the people. While declining any part in the management of this group we trust that all will get behind the movement and see that Champion does as well if not better than it did in 1914-18

ity measure, possible belligerent and neutrals alike have been accumulating emergency reserves of wheat even in the face of a short crop. The British Minister of Agriculture estimates that the new domestic crop will be sufficient to maintain the bread supply for six months without imports.

The Church in a State Of War

In the current issue of The United Church Observer the official organ of the Church, the editor deals with the attitude of the christian towards war in a most intelligent manner.

In his opening remarks the editor makes it clear he only speaks his own mind "as God gives us light" Neither the Church nor the Church paper can assume the right to tell the minister or the member what he must do in any set of circumstances. That is the responsibility of the individual,

The church is a Divine institution founded on the faith that at a period in history God broke into human experience and revealed himself in Jesus Christ. The essence of religion is the belief in a relation to God involving duties superior to those arising from any human relation. When in the mind of the Christian there is a conflict of loyalties, loyalty to God in Jesus Christ must take precedence.

There may be those who cannot for conscience sake support war. They must take all risks which that position involves just as their brothers take when they take up arms. The church makes no discrimination between them. They are both sons of the church, needing its comfort, help, encouragement and support. The church must treat them all alike, caring for them as children of a loving Father.

While not wishing to detract from Mr. Wilson's able exposition we might add that the church stands ready to give this comfort. In Champion, Carmangay and Barons there are churches which have open doors and men of various Faiths ready to minister to the spiritual needs.

Be Loyal to Your Community

REMEMBER that no outsider is going to help you build your town. Every time you give business to an outsider that can be advantageously placed with your home town firms, you are making the community poorer. It is the local business firms who pay wages to local people, who pay the heaviest taxes, who are called upon to subscribe to various organizations and appeals for help. We admire the customer who gives the home town an even break. There are many little services that no outsider can or will give. Be loyal to your own community — for one good turn deserves another.

YOUR local newspaper stands for a definite policy for progress in all lines of community effort. A newspaper worthy of the name, and to be of use to the community in which it is published, must necessarily express opinions which the reader may accept or reject. A newspaper with out a definite policy, or which does not express an opinion for fear it will suffer financially in the loss of advertising revenue, is to be likened to a jellyfish.

Dear Sir:

Financing of Kehoe Dome Oil Co is almost completed. Only 55,000 shares remain to be sold, before actual drilling operations begin, and the officials of the company are anxious to have these sold in thirty days.

Arrangements have been made with a first class experienced driller and his crew. Derrick, machinery, cook cars, surface rights etc have been completed.

As a result of present conditions in Europe, it is expected that an intensive drilling campaign will begin in this province, to locate other oil fields. Once these are discovered there is little doubt that pipe lines to the sea coasts will be built. We are determined to begin drilling as quickly as possible. While stock is selling at 25c per share, this is only the price set to raise finances. Watch it climb to big figures when production is reached, for we are out to give the shareholders the best kind of a square deal.

When Gordon Campbell the geologist who opened up the first oilwell in Montana some twenty years ago was last in Calgary, speaking to the president of our oil Co, he said, "The big oil field in Alberta hasnt been opened up yet. That field he said is the Black Spring ridge area east of Barons beginning at Scabby Butte. When he was told that our company was organized to drill on section eighteen Scabby Butte, he said "Good you are sitting right on top of it."

We appreciate the support we have already received from your readers, and are pleased to see that many ladies are buying stock in the company. This morning we receiving a large application for stock, with cheque from the United States.

This will be my last appeal to your readers to subscribe for Kehoe Dome stock. My next notice will be advising you of our drilling progress as the bit eats it's way down to the oil sands.

Your readers can write out their cheques, and mail them to me for the amount of stock they will require and I will attend to the rest for them. But I urge them to do it now.

Yours for success

A. S. Roberts

A Sermonette

by Rev Canon Winter

The final verse of Mr. Justice Weir's hymn O Canada, is not so well known as the beginning: Ruler supreme, who hearest humble prayer, Hold our Dominion in thy loving care; Help us to find, O God, in thee A lasting rich reward, As waiting for the Better Day We ever stand on guard,

Yet it lifts the thought from mere gratitude for inheritance to a recognition of the giver, and a responsibility for the trust committed to Canadians for a right conduct of the Dominion.

Recognizing therefore the Duty, it behoves all loyal persons to seek from Him natruction and assistance in maintaining unimpaired the inheritance of our our fore-fathers called The Dominion, owing to the, owing to the striking resemblance of its physical outlay to that which is described in Psalm 72,

More particular is this instruction and assistance necessary when unrest in other countries leads mens minds to seek the foundation on which our civilization rests. Then it is that the thought turns to Psalm 55. Give ear to my prayer, O God up to the final conclusion, "I will trust in thee."

The GIANT of ALBERTA

THE ancients thought the sky was held up on the shoulders of the giant Atlas. But Alberta is actually carried, from an economic standpoint, on the shoulders of the giant Agriculture.

Last year, less than 100,000 Alberta farmers produced $167 million of new wealth. Of that total $118 million came from field crops, mostly wheat.

Where would Alberta's 775,000 people get a living if it were not for agriculture? Yet this great industry must struggle along under the burden of marketing methods which, more often than not, provide inadequate prices. Sophistry and theorizing avail little. Action is needed. The Wheat Pools and the farm organizations got the Wheat Board. This was a great forward step in marketing wheat, to which all now subscribe.

But it is just a step. The Board must be perpetuated. The agricultural industry must have greater all-round price protection. There must be no return to the laissez-faire methods. An aroused agriculture can make progress by uniting its strength. The best way to do this is to build up farm organizations and co-operatives.
